KRAFT LOOMING AS NEW CLERK OF VOTE BOARD

Republicans Indorse Two To Serve Four-Year Terms In Pickaway County

DREISBACH TO CONTINUE

Secretary Of State May Be Asked To Decide Official In Case Of Deadlock

Claude D. Kraft, East Main Street, secretary of the Pickaway County Republican executive committee, and Orin W. Dreisbach, Circleville Township, were indorsed Tuesday evening by the county committee for positions on the board of elections, the former as clerk and the latter as a board member.

Tom A. Renick, chairman of the executive committee, said that a change in the clerkship is expected prior to the next election scheduled in May. The fact that Earl Griffith, secretary of state, who appoints the election board officials, is a Republican, leads authorities to believe that a Republican will be named as the new clerk. Lawrence J. Johnson, present clerk, is a Democrat.

Terms of two members of the board expire on March 1. They are Mr. Dreisbach and James Tootle of Monroe Township, the latter a Democrat. The Democratic Executive committee has not yet announced an indorsement.

Holdover members of the board are Russell Imler, Democrat, and Thomas J. Burgett, Republican, who is chairman of the present board.

The secretary of state is asked to name the clerk in case the election board is unable to make its own decision. Since there are two Republicans and two Democrats on the board a deadlock is possible in the selection of the clerk.

Board members are appointed for four-year terms, the salary for members being $27 a month and for the clerk $40.50 a month.

EXECUTIVE NAMED FOR BOY SCOUTS

James I. Smith, chairman of the Pickaway District and vice president of the Central Ohio Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, announced Wednesday the appointment of Robert H. Scanland as field scout executive for Circleville and Pickaway County. Scanland will assume his new duties immediately.

The appointment is in line with a general program for extending Scouting opportunities to increased numbers of Pickaway County boys, and is in keeping with the National objective of the Boy Scouts of America to reach one out of every four boys in America with the scouting influence.

Scanland will bring to the scout movement in Pickaway County a rich background of experience in work with young people. Privileged since early youth to have been associated with scouting at its best, he has a fine conception of the effectiveness of the Scout Program. In recent years he has served as scoutmaster of First Community Church, Grandview, and has been associated with Dr. Roy A. Burkhardt in the general youth program of the church.

Before joining the professional staff of the Boy Scouts of America, Scanland was connected with the State Welfare Department, Division of Public Assistance, in the Bureau of Juvenile Research. The new field executive was educated at Ohio Wesleyan University and Ohio State University. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity.

In the field of camping, Scanland's work has associated him with the Scout Reservation, Camp Sarona in Wisconsin, Camp Ohio, Camp Indianola and the Boy Scout Camp of the New York World's Fair.

BOXER, INJURED BY BILLY CONN, HAS OPERATION

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 10—Handsome Jim Lindsay, 25, remained in a serious condition in the hospital today after a second operation for removal of a blood clot on the brain, presumably resulting from a blow struck by lightweight champion, Billy Conn.

Lindsay was hurt just before the Christmas holidays, and since Christmas Day has been in a critical condition. Lindsay's family contends that Billy Conn struck him a sharp blow to the head while the two were sparring in the Pittsburgh Lyceum, where the light-heavyweight king was allegedly training for his fight tonight with Henry Cooper at New York.

Lindsay's wife, Virginia Pearson Lindsay, whom he married last November, interrupted a stage dancing schedule to be at his bedside.

PLANS FOR HUGE BOMBER STOLEN AND RECOVERED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—Theft of plans for a big army bombing plane and potential plans to guard 430 factories from sabotage were disclosed today as the house appropriations committee reported a special national defense bill carrying $267,197,908 to meet the cost of President Roosevelt's proclamation of a limited emergency. J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, told the committee in hearings made public with introduction of the bill in the house that the airplane plans were stolen from a west coast factory. He said they were recovered.

Slaney, of Shropshire, the studio learned when a message was sent to London in an effort to locate Niven.

Tidal Wave Hits Property Near Los Angeles And Santa Barbara

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10—Heavy seas today continued to pound the South California coast line, causing considerable damage to shore property.

A thirty-foot tidal wave at Venice Beach endangered scores of beach homes, and removed tons of sand around the home formerly owned by Mae Murray, screen actress.

Angry seas off Santa Barbara did an estimated $20,000 damage to cottages at the beach communities in that vicinity.

The storm which swept the whole Pacific Coast over the week end was believed blowing itself out and clear weather was expected by tomorrow.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 10—Warmer temperatures prevailed in Ohio today as the weatherman forecast snow or rain for tonight and tomorrow.

All highways in the state are open and driving conditions are greatly improved, the state highway department reported. Temperatures last night ranged from 10 to 20 degrees above zero, the department said.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 10—The Ohio River again was open to traffic in the Cincinnati area today. Stationary ice, which had blocked traffic for several days, broke loose yesterday leaving the Cincinnati waterfront virtually clear. A wharftboat at the Public Landing was driven aground by the ice but was not damaged.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—The navy's proposal to obtain $4,000,000 for developing seaplane facilities at Guam, 1,500 miles from Japan, struck a snag in the house naval affairs committee today.

Chairman Vinson (D) of Georgia, of the committee told Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, today that he would raise a point of order in the house against the appropriation.

Action of the navy, in seeking funds through the appropriations committee after congress rejected appropriations of Guam in a bitter fight last year, was described by Vinson as apparently irregular,

Sub-Zero Temperatures Hit War Region, Cutting Down Russian Strength

12,000 MORE TRAPPED

Much Outlawed Equipment Held By Defenders After Major Battles

HELSINKI, Jan. 10—Finland's high command summoned the rigors of northern weather to their aid against Soviet Russia today, holding their troops in check while they waited for sub-zero temperatures and hunger to "soften" Red army troops on the Eastern Front.

With little actual fighting reported, advices from the Salla war zone stated that a Soviet division trapped by Finnish troops is now "ripe for defeat" after being cut off from its main sources of supplies.

Helsinki received word that the Finnish commanders, seeking to spare the lives of their own men, are letting the elements "work on" the Russians before launching another attack which is expected to repeat the Finnish victories which "annihilated" the Russian 163rd and 44th divisions.

New Drive Forms

While authorities remained silent regarding latest developments in the Salla area, scanty reports to the capital indicated that a new Finnish onslaught against the trapped Russian division is imminent.

At least 12,000 Russians are reported caught in the Finnish trap near Salla and authorities here described their position as "desperate." With the Finns gradually closing in, it was even asserted that the Russians may surrender without a fight.

Other reports stated that the Russians lost 60 percent of the effectives who participated in the Suomussalmi battle which wiped out the Red army 44th division (Continued on Page Two)

DETROIT WIDOW ADMITS PART IN GIGANTIC HOAX

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 10—A 70-year-old Detroit widow today reportedly confessed a partnership in the gigantic hoax which Flint authorities said mulcted $100,000 from 75 residents here in four years.

Assistant Genesee County Prosecutor Sherman M. Bean said Mrs. Marie Heth, a white woman, yesterday told him she and George James, 36-year-old Detroit Negro were partners in the promotion of a fabulous printing machine they told investors would make millions for them.

James is held on $15,000 bond charged with selling securities without a license.

Mrs. Heth told Bean, he said, she was connected with James for the last six years in attempts to sell the "James-Heth printing machine" to a New York syndicate. She denied, however, receiving any part of the estimated $200,000 invested in the scheme by Detroit, Flint and Chicago investors, many of whom borrowed money from banks and mortgaged farms to invest, although ignorant of the nature of the money-making machine.

In return they received receipts entitling them to from 100 to 250 times their investments.

U. S. SENDS 'DELOUSERS' TO AID FINN SOLDIERS

HELSINKI, Jan. 10—Seven American-made "delousing" cars have been imported by Finland for use of troops at the front, it was disclosed today. The devices are used to clean soldiers' uniforms and prevent spread of epidemics.

Choice of Bevis As New O. S. U. President Lauded

COLUMBUS, Jan. 10—Governor Bricker declared today that he was "very much satisfied" with the selection of Dr. Howard L. Bevis as president of Ohio State University.

"I think the new president is a fine man and one capable of handling the duties of president of the university," the chief executive declared. "I have a high regard for his ability and integrity."

Bricker, who just returned from a Florida vacation, said he heard of the trustees' decision to name Bevis while he was enroute to Columbus. He said he wired his congratulations to the new president from Kentucky.

The governor also praised Dr. William McPherson for the way he had performed his duties as acting president of the institution during the past 18 months.

Dr. Bevis is expected to take over his new duties about February 1.

Details will be worked out by Dr. Bevis and the trustees when he comes to Columbus over the week-end for a conference. He has indicated that he would be ready to become president at the close of the current semester at Harvard, where he is professor of law and government.

Dr. McPherson expects to write some additional books on chemistry after he is relieved of his present duties. He will continue as dean emeritus of the chemistry department.

Bevis, incidentally, will be the third lawyer to be president of Ohio State University. Former Presidents George W. Rightmire and James H. Canfield were lawyers.

JURY NAMED FOR DEATH TRIAL OF STATE TROOPER

MAUCH CHUNG, Pa., Jan. 10—With a jury finally chosen after two days' questioning of veniremen, the commonwealth opened its case today against Corporal Benjamin Franklin, state motor policeman charged with the slaying of 14-year-old Joan Stevens, Nesquehoning school girl.

A. P. Allen, Mauch Chung county detective, who investigated the tragedy, was listed as first prosecution witness before the jury of nine men and three women, which with two male alternates was drawn from three panels. Juror No. 2, Lee Learn, 40, Palmerton High School instructor, was disclosed as a brother of a state trooper but was allowed to remain on the jury.

The commonwealth seeks a second degree murder conviction. Franklin, 35, has admitted firing the eight automatic slugs that killed Joan in a state prowl car in Nesquehoning last June 5 as the trooper and a companion, by their stories, were questioning her. He claims she first pulled a gun, later found to be a toy, and threatened to "blow my brains out."

Dunbar Castle Sinks After Collision With Explosive In North Sea Region; Number Of Victims Not Definite

LONDON, Jan. 10—Another British vessel, the 1,985-ton freighter Oakgrove, sank after an attack by German war planes off the coast of England today as a checkup showed a possible loss of 42 lives in a series of sinkings during the last 24 hours.

Mine explosions and aerial attacks were jointly responsible for the new shipping losses.

The largest vessel to suffer was the 10,002-ton British liner Dunbar Castle, which went down with a known loss of three lives after striking a mine.

In addition, at least five other British and neutral vessels were lost.

Casualties Unknown

Twenty members of the Oakgrove's crew were rescued, but the extent of possible casualties was not known.

Survivors of the Oakgrove disaster were landed at an East Coast port, three of them necessitating hospital treatment.

Captain W. F. Falconer was listed among the missing.

The Danish steamers Ivan Kondrup and Feddy were among a dozen ships attacked from the air by German fighting planes. Contrary to first reports, the vessels were not sunk, the admiralty stating they were still afloat this afternoon and would probably be brought to port.

"There is still no information with regard to casualties aboard these two vessels."

Unofficial reports, however, said that 10 were lost on the Ivan Kondrup and eight killed aboard the Feddy.

Authorities checked coastal ports where survivors disembarked to determine the exact number missing from the Dunbar Castle, and latest reports indicated that all survivors from the liner had been rescued except two crew members, who were believed to be missing.

Passengers said the liner was outward bound to join a naval convoy when it struck a mine.

On the basis of latest available information, it was estimated that 42 persons lost their lives as a result of the mine explosions and aerial attacks.

Eleven other vessels fought off aerial bombing and machine gun (Continued on Page Two)

Courage Among Brit Ship Crew, Passengers Lauded

LONDON, Jan. 10—A stirring story of courage among passengers and crew of the mined British liner Dunbar Castle was told today by a survivor of the sunken vessel.

Revealing that the ship's back broke 10 minutes after the explosion, T. A. Terry, a passenger who was en route to Cape Town with his wife and two children, declared: "We suddenly heard a terrible bang. I think it must have been a mine, for there was no sign of a submarine or torpedo."

"My wife and children were with me in our cabin. All the lights went out. The children asked: 'Is it a blackout already?'"

"We hurried on deck and found everything proceeding in most orderly fashion. They were getting the passengers off the ship without the slightest suggestion of panic. All the passengers got off safely."

Another passenger, C. S. Kearey, said that several passengers were thrown into the sea when the ship listed quickly after striking the mine.

"The boats were lowered immediately to pick up passengers swimming in the water, he added, but great difficulty was experienced in launching the rest of the boats owing to the heavy list. In addition the suction caused by the sinking liner made it extremely hard to row the lifeboats away."

One survivor said that the passengers had no opportunity to return to their cabins for their valuables.

"We lost everything," he said. "It was perishing cold."

CROMWELL WINS SENATE FAVOR AS NEW ENVOY

and that 2,000 Red army survivors, including the divisional chief of staff and 40 officers, surrendered under a flag of truce.

It was claimed that the Finnish victories over the 163rd and 44th divisions "virtually annihilated" some 50,000 Russian troops and broke up the Russian Ninth Army Corps.

While relative quiet prevailed on most fronts, it was learned that among the huge quantities of war materials captured by the Finns on the Suomussalmi Front were dum-dum bullets, phosphorus bullets and explosive bullets of all types prohibited by international law.

Supplies Blocked

At the same time, following up the defeat of the Russian 44th division, Finnish ski troops working in conjunction with war planes were reported once more to have severed the Murmansk-Leningrad railway, adding further difficulties to the Soviet problem of supplying Russian troops on the northern fronts with food and ammunition.

Soviet planes raided six small towns in middle Finland, but damage was slight. One family of four was killed but no other casualties were reported. An air raid warning was sounded at Abo but it was believed that no attack materialized.

Authorities in Helsinki said that after the 44th Soviet division was dispersed on the Suomussalmi Front near Raate, 40 Russian officers were included among the Soviet prisoners captured—among them a colonel attached to the Russian headquarters staff. A Soviet major general was said to have been among those killed.

Finnish women who were evacuated from Helsinki at the outbreak of hostilities have begun to return to the city despite the possibility of further air raids. Government authorities advised them to return to the country.

The newspaper Helsingin Sanomat in an editorial stated that sympathy for the Finnish cause in the United States has made a great impression on Finland.

"We will never forget the activity of President Roosevelt, former President Hoover and others in behalf of Finland," the paper stated.

MOSCOW, Jan. 10.—Admitting reverses in the campaign against Finland, the Soviet war communiqué announced today that Red army troops have withdrawn "several kilometers" east of Suomussalmi on Finland's North Central front.

The statement said the Soviet forces fell back as a result of fighting between infantry units. It added:

"There were reconnaissance activities in the Repola and Petrosavodsk sectors. On the Carelian Isthmus there was infrequent artillery fire. Aviation was restricted owing to unfavorable weather."

HELSINKI, Jan. 10.—The 44th Soviet Russian Red army division, annihilated by Finnish troops on the Suomussalmi Front, comprised Russia's most noted elite military body, Finnish circles said today.

The 44th division, which numbered about 22,000 troops, frequently marched in Moscow parades. Booty captured by the Finns after it was routed was described as "extraordinarily large."

Finnish Education Minister U. Hannula, who toured the Suomussalmi area, said he found 1,500 dead Soviet soldiers on a single hill in the battle zone. More of the Russians had frozen to death than died as a result of wounds.

It was claimed that most of the Finnish casualties had suffered wounds in left arms—received while in shooting position—while most of the Russians had been shot in the back.

attacks that were leveled after Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain warned Great Britain in his first address of 1940 that it must face days "much grimmer than anything we have yet seen" before the Allies can attain victory.

The Dunbar Castle, a luxury vessel of the Union Castle line, went down after striking a mine off the southeast coast of England yesterday afternoon.

An admiralty communiqué said three merchant vessels were sunk by German aircraft in the North Sea. They were the British steamer Gowrie and the Danish vessels, Ivan Kondrup and Feddy.

All members of the Gowrie's crew were saved. Ten were missing from the Kondrup, but 11 survivors reached land safely. A bomb landed amidships on the Feddy, killing the second officer. Only 10 of the Feddy's 18 crew members were accounted for, and three of these were injured and rushed to hospitals.

Tanker Hits Mine

A previous admiralty statement revealed loss of the tanker British Liberty, which struck a mine in the North Sea. The captain and 19 crew members were believed lost while 18 survivors were rescued.

The liner Dunbar Castle carried some 48 passengers, including women and children and a crew estimated at 150 when it struck the mine. The passengers were rescued by a coastal motor barge after drifting at sea in two lifeboats. An early morning announcement indicated 30 crew members had been picked up, and later advice indicated all the survivors were brought ashore.

Nevertheless, search for more possible survivors continued pending a complete check-up.

Those killed by the explosion were the Dunbar Castle commander, Captain Clauston, the engineer and the store keeper. The second officer suffered a broken leg.

Herbert Watts, a member of the crew, said that after the ship hit the mine he found the deck crumbling under his feet. The bridge collapsed and the ship's mast crashed to the deck.

Captain Dies In Door

The captain, who was on the bridge, was badly injured but sought to reach his cabin to obtain the ship's papers. He died in the cabin doorway.

First Officer Robertson remained aboard the liner until everyone was off, then carried the body of the captain to a lifeboat. The store keeper and engineer died while aboard a life boat after leaving the sinking vessel.

FAIR MANAGERS OF STATE MEET IN CONFERENCE

Krinn And Parrett Named To Represent Pumpkin Show Society

RACING QUESTION VITAL

Bricker To Address Annual Banquet Thursday Eve, Feature Of Confab

Tom D. Krinn, vice-president, and Mack Parrett, Jr., secretary, are delegates of the Circleville Pumpkin Show Society to the meeting of the Ohio Fair Managers' Association.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 10 — Ohio Fair Managers and harness racing devotees, about 1,500 strong, converged on Columbus today for the annual Ohio Fair Managers Association meeting.

While particular attention was to be afforded each phase peculiar to fair management, harness racing was the topic about which the majority of delegates were concerned.

During an "open house" meeting tonight, the majority of fair associations will report harness racing attendance as highly satisfactory during 1939. Too, most fair managers are satisfied that during the coming year a substantial gain will be recorded in attendance.

A hot fight was expected tonight when the delegates elect three directors to represent the Ohio District at future meetings conducted by the United States Trotting Association. Nominations will be made from the floor and the subsequent election will probably inject considerable pep into the affair.

Rulings Discussed

The harness racing enthusiasts will discuss recent rulings laid down by the USTA and the effect these rulings may have on the sport in Ohio. Dates for 1940 meetings will be outlined, size of purses figured and classes for various horses determined. It was expected that the opening 1940 date for the Ohio Short Ship Circuit would be granted to Columbus.

Gov. John W. Bricker will be the principal speaker at the banquet Thursday night, for which more than 800 reservations have already been made. Other speakers include Chief Justice Carl Weygant, of the Ohio Supreme Court, State Agriculture Director John T. Brown and "Dusty" Miller, Wilmington humorist.

Preceding the Thursday night banquet and closing session, there will be various meetings devoted to fair administration problems which will be attended only by county fair association executive officers.

As in past years, one of the principal figures at the harness racing gatherings will be Mrs. Don Detrick, Bellefontaine, who for years has been secretary of the Ohio Association and an ardent follower of the sport.

Mr. Wolford said the twins are the first in the family in 100 years.

Beast and His Prey

"THE CAT," crawling, murdering beast of the bayous, grasps terrified Paulette Goddard in this chilling moment from Paramount's new mystery-thriller which is scheduled to open on Friday on a double bill with "Roy Rogers" at the Cliftona Theatre. Bob Hope, cast opposite Miss Goddard, adds chuckles to chills. John Beal, Douglass Montgomery, Gale Sondergaard, Elizabeth Patterson and George Zucco also appear in the film. It's the story of six startled heirs to a madman's fortune who gather in a dreary old house in Louisiana fashions to hear the reading of their ancestor's will. Lovely Miss Goddard is named heiress with the awesome proviso that she remain alive and sane for a period of one month after her designation.

post, in fact was one of three possibilities considered for the judgeship on the Third Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia vacated by new Solicitor General Frances Biddle. Most likely appointment for Madden is a vacant seat on the federal bench in the District of Columbia.

Smith, however, is a problem. His term doesn't expire until next year and he is a determined fighter. Unless he can be persuaded to quit voluntarily, there is no way to remove him except by preferring charges against him. Roosevelt has no intention of doing this because, despite criticism, he rates Smith highly.

He concedes, however, that Smith has become an NLRB storm center and that in the interest of preserving the law it would be best if he stepped out. The question is whether he can be persuaded.

ROOSEVELT JOKE

The President loves a joke, and he had one with Representative Joe Martin, able little Republican floor leader, just before delivering his message to Congress.

Martin was a member of the reception committee that received Roosevelt in the Speaker's lobby, just off the House. As they shook hands, Roosevelt whispered in Martin's ear:

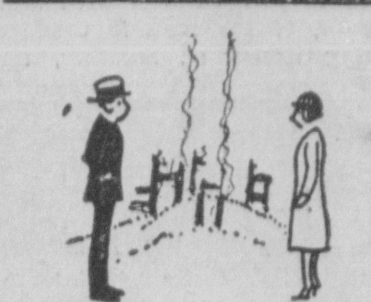

"Tell your boys they had better be on their guard, Joe. I've got a couple of traps for them."

"Thanks for the tip, Mr. Roosevelt," chuckled Martin. "It's nice to be warned in advance. I only wish your legislative leaders were as generous."

GOP FARM SOLUTION

GOP chiefs on Capitol Hill aren't advertising it yet, but they think they've found the answer to the party's No. 1 campaign problem—a safe farm plank.

Four separate groups have been racking their brains over this conundrum for months. The solution which the leaders think is the real McCoy is the work of one of these groups — the committee of 46 farm-district Congressmen appointed by Republican Floor Leader Joe Martin.

Except in a few Midwestern centers where it held public hearings the committee has attracted little attention. But it has been active in sounding out agricultural sentiment. Furthermore, its members are practical politicians and some of them, such as Chairman Cliff Hope of Kansas, are among the most astute strategists in Congress.

Principal stumbling block of the GOP in the past has been how to blast the AAA, without arousing the farmer's fear that the Republicans will scuttle AAA benefit payments. But here is the Hope committee's secret formula for performing this trick:

Under the present AAA system growers get benefit checks on two counts: (1) for reducing acreage, (2) for planting a soil-conserving crop. Taking advantage of the average farmer's antipathy to letting land lie idle, the Hope committee proposes that the GOP platform advocate less acreage reduction and more payments for soil conservation.

In other words, the Republicans would promise the farmer the same amount of money from the Government that he gets now, but it would be for "soil conserving" and not crop cutting.

Again, shrewdly playing on popular sentiment, the Hope committee would link this shift with national defense on the argument that with Europe destroying itself, the agricultural resources of the United States must be built up to meet any contingency.

War Department Acts To Aid Finns Against Russ

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—The War Department is prepared to authorize American arms and munitions manufacturers to sell the Finnish government large quantities of modern military equipment, it was learned today.

A Finnish military mission now in the United States is prepared to purchase approximately $50,000,000 worth of guns, munitions and aircraft.

This mission, it was revealed, also desires to buy at least 125 additional pursuit planes and attack bombers for delivery by April. Finland recently acquired 44 pursuit ships originally consigned to the navy department.

The war department has been moving cautiously in authorizing export of American war materials to various foreign nations, both belligerent and neutral.

The army possesses a number of exclusive designs for various types of up-to-date weapons which are not being manufactured in particularly large quantities at the present time.

Officials indicate their willingness to allow Finland to place substantial orders for some of these weapons with American manufacturers. Latest type machine guns, trench mortars and rifles are being sought by the Finns.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt took the leadership in mobilizing further direct aid to Finland. The President revealed he is discussing Finnish assistance with the state and war departments and indicated he would make an announcement on this subject next week.

It is likely that the President will address a message to congress shortly detailing what this government is doing to help the Finns. Mr. Roosevelt already has declared his intention of asking congress to set aside Finland's war debt instalments for use in relief work.

A number of bills were introduced in both houses to lend further aid to the tiny republic. One would authorize a $50,000,000 government loan while another would permit Finland to buy army rifles for a dollar a piece.

An amazing story entitled "The Greek Interpreter" reveals that Mycroft Holmes has a power of deduction quite akin to that of his famous brother. But it's the great Sherlock, as usual, who brings the tale to its smashing conclusion. Rathbone, of course, plays Sherlock. His faithful aide, Dr. Watson, is projected by Nigel Bruce. Edith Meiser does the adaptation.

THEY CHOOSE CAREERS

Those who have reached the top rung of success' ladder in radio generally have their own ambition and talent to thank for attaining their goal but hardly any of the successful actors or actresses are without their own particular inspirations.

Edward G. Robinson, star of the air show "Big Town" and a veteran star of stage and screen, set out to be a lawyer but amateur theatricals at Columbia University and a performance of "Hamlet" by Edward Sothern inspired him to become an actor.

The famous Russian actress Nazimova provided Rosemary DeCamp with the inspiration to become an actress. And that inspiration was given added incentive when Tom Mix, Harry Carey and others came to her Arizona home to make cowboy movies.

Marilyn Miller, one of Broadway's brightest dancing stars, provided inspiration for Ona Munson, whose twinkling toes made her one of the greatest of musical comedy stars. More recently Miss Munson, currently appearing opposite Edward G. Robinson in "Big Town on the air," is inspired by Eleanor Roosevelt. "If I think I am tired, I am revitalized at the mere thought of Mrs. Roosevelt's energy," says Ona.

Professor Charles Galloway was Eddie Dunstetter's inspiration. "He made me realize how little I knew about music and I became determined to learn more," says Eddie.

G. O. P. CHIEFS GATHER FEB. 16 TO CHOOSE CITY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—With his party leaders opposed to a late summer rally GOP Chairman John Hamilton today summoned the Republican national committee to meet here February 16 to set the time and place for the Republican presidential convention.

This will give the Republicans a second-guess over the Democrats, who meet here February 5 to name their convention city and date.

National observers believed both Democrats and Republicans will hold their conventions in Chicago. But this decision will depend entirely on Chicago raising enough money to take care of the two rallies. The Windy City did the trick in 1884 and again in 1932, a feat no other city ever has achieved.

There is a much greater division of opinion over the dates of the conventions, since President Roosevelt suggested both be held late in the summer. The President advanced this idea in order to shorten the presidential campaigns. Republican chieftains, while conceding their usual June date might be delayed until July, generally oppose meeting later than July 15. The Republicans contend they have a much greater talking campaign ahead of them than the Democrats, particularly if Mr. Roosevelt is nominated for a third term.

LOYAL DACHSHUND

SKIPPY, the dachshund recently honored by the Connecticut Humane Society, probably doesn't understand what medals are all about. There are many things people do that dogs don't understand. But there are other things that dogs understand so well that human beings are grateful for their existence and companionship.

One of the things understood by Skippy was that his little friend, three-year-old Dorothy Ann Clinch, needed him very much one night about six weeks ago. The child had wandered away from her home one afternoon to take an unannounced walk.

There is a woods not far from the Clinch home, with some swampy places. It's a safe enough region for adults, but hardly a place for small children to wander alone. Dorothy went there, got tired and lost and did not know what to do about it. Skippy could not take the child home, although he doubtless knew the way himself. So he stayed at her side and barked and barked.

Searchers heard the dog while they were still some distance away. They called and whistled to Skippy, but Skippy didn't run to them. He stayed with Dorothy and kept right on barking. Soon, of course, the people found him. Dorothy was fast asleep.

Now Skippy has a hero's medal. What's more important, he still has Dorothy.

SOUTH AMERICAN BOOKS

WESTERN Reserve University is making a contribution to the current practice of getting acquainted with our South American neighbors. Believing that you do not really know a people until you know their literature, and recognizing that a great many of us do not read Spanish and are not likely to learn to do so immediately, the University will publish inexpensively a lot of books written in the southern republics.

Students will make the translations of the books and the university will print them at low cost. Ordinarily books must have a sale of at least 2,000 copies successfully distributed in smaller markets. Authors are cooperating by waiving royalties. Microphotography and photo-offset will be used in producing the limited quantities of these books.

The translations may not do the literary quality of the books justice. Good translation is a creative art in itself and requires a command of both the original language of the translation. Yet the project should prove useful. The university authorities apparently believe there is a worthy literature ready for this work.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles F. Stewart

PRELIMINARY to starting on Uncle Sam's decennial count, to ascertain the size of the country's population, census bureau experts are doing some advance figuring. What they're trying to determine is:

At what number of millions and fractions of an additional million can we consider that we've ceased to increase and multiply?—that we already have as many men, women and children in our midst as ever we're likely to have?—that maybe we'll even register a little shrinkage thenceforward?

Past calculations have indicated that 155,000,000 probably would be about our maximum—that after that our population would remain about stationary.

Today's guessing is that 145,000,000 would be a better estimate. There's some suspicion that the coming tally will prove us to have hit the 145,000,000 total in the last decade—that we're numerically static now—that we no longer are a growing people, receding arithmetically.

WHAT'S THE REASON?

Our immigration restrictions in recent years have had a good bit to do with it. We haven't been scooping in foreigners as once we did—partly because we wouldn't admit 'em, and partly because they haven't been so anxious to come during our depression period.

Our birth rate has declined also; we haven't as large families as formerly.

These two influences have signified materially.

American medicine, however, partially has modified them; folks don't die as fast as they did earlier (and quite recently) in our national history.

The census bureau's problem is to hit on a correct balance between our dwindling immigration and birth rates, on one hand, and our dwindling death rate on the opposite hand.

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE

Nevertheless, there's a difference between dwindling immigration and birth rates and a dwindling death rate.

Immigrants generally are young folks. Newly-born babies are VERY young. They constitute, between them, a rising generation.

The old folk, who DON'T die, because modern medicine won't let 'em altogether are another type of humans.

Such a pretty general switching from youthful, "peppy" generation to an elderly, more or less discouraged generation has its economic effects. The would-be incoming generation is kept back by older people, who don't want to be displaced by the youngsters. The out-going generation doesn't want to be hustled. It resents the youngsters.

CENSUS BUREAU'S JOB

It isn't the census bureau's job to enter into these economic issues. Its mission is to provide the information from which economists can interpret the situation.

In this line the ablest economist I know of is O. E. Baker of the agriculture department.

Baker's thesis is that we've got to readjust on age lines.

For example, he says, when we've reached a stationary population, real estate hasn't the value that it had when we were increasing in numbers, and were in competition for ground to stand on.

Baker agrees that we haven't arrived yet at that point—like China.

But he does contend that we're trending toward it. He thinks we ought to modify our economics accordingly.

We've got overflow room in Latin America.

Presently Latin America will be overdone, too—but that's a problem for the distant future; a matter of centuries. Who cares for the fact that Finland and not their

WASHINGTON—The new budget reveals that Roosevelt pruned almost every agency in the Government—except his own.

The White House budget actually has been increased by $6,000 rather than decreased, and now calls for $152,750 to run the Executive Mansion and grounds during the next fiscal year.

The increase, however, is for a new coat of paint. In July and August of this year, the White House will be painted to keep it up to its traditional name, and that paint job will cost $6,000.

Aside from this, the White House budget has not been pruned a penny, although other government agencies were. The amount for "Travel and Entertainment" remains at $30,000, as against $25,000 two years ago.

Roosevelt is the most traveled President since Taft, and the cost of going to Hyde Park and back, plus Warm Springs and other trips costs a good bit more than the amount allowed in the budget—despite the fact that the budget was increased by $5,000 two years ago.

The Roosevelts also entertain much more than their predecessors, and exceed their budget on this. In both cases—travel and entertainment—the President and his wife dip into their own pockets to make up the deficit.

Wages of the White House staff total about $100,000. The housekeeper gets $3,300, the gardener $2,500, the first cook $1,620, plus a wide assortment of other cooks, butlers, kitchen helpers, housemen and maids.

The bill for heat, light, and electric power (to drive the elevator, mechanical appliances in the kitchen, etc.) is $11,200. The laundry bill is $4,800.

NLRB HOUSECLEANING

The President is quietly out to houseclean the National Labor Relations Board in order to save it from an irate congressional shellacking.

He believes that if he replaces Chairman J. Warren Madden and Commissioner Edwin S. Smith with less controversial figures, congressional hostility will be assuaged and the clamor for revision of the law itself will be stemmed. Roosevelt is dead set against any tampering with the law.

Replacing Madden presents no difficulties, since his term expires this August. An able lawyer, he will be given a judicial (Continued on Page Three)

DIET AND HEALTH

Orange Juice's Role in Building Bones

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Does orange juice have any effect on bone and tooth building?

Recent experiments have proved that fruit juices containing vitamin C activate the deposit of calcium. Formerly it was supposed that vitamin D, which is found in fatty foods, was exclusively responsible for the mechanism of the deposit of calcium in the bones and teeth.

Langford's experiments showed that orange juice is an effective aid.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest weekly, and then only through his column.

In this mechanism, in experimental animals growth alone was promoted 10 per cent by the addition of orange juice to the basic diet, and it was shown by volumetric estimation that the amount of calcium ash in the body showed a distinctly higher per cent of calcium in animals fed an abundance of orange juice over those where orange juice was excluded from the diet.

Even when the content of calcium in the food is lower than normal, its utilization is greater when orange juice is fed than when the diet is high in calcium and no orange juice is taken.

These experiments substantiate the clinical observation of Chaney and Blunt that orange juice favors the retention of calcium in growing children.

Why Complexions Suffer in Winter

Why do complexions suffer in the winter time?

For two reasons. In the first place, overdoing the daily bath idea. In hot and warm weather the lukewarm bath, even with heavy soap-ing, removes a great deal of detritus and improves the function of the skin. In cold weather, when the skin secretions are more or less dried up, it tends to dry the skin excessively and cause cracking and scaling. The same effect is produced, particularly on the skin of the face, by going out from the exceedingly hot, dry rooms of the American home and office building in winter to the outside cold. This is the second reason.

I believe the inside of the American home is more uncomfortable and unhealthy in winter time than it is in the summer time.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. L. T.: "Regarding cancer of the breast, you mention in an article that a lump in the breast is usually painless. I would like to know should pressure be exerted to the lump would there be a sensation of pain? Can you tell me if there is a test which one can take which would prove that a lump is or is not cancer?"

Answer—Early cancer of the breast is usually painless and gentle pressure does not elicit tenderness. Of course, late cancer is painful. The only positive test which will detect whether a lump in the breast is cancer or not is to remove a small piece by surgical operation, and submit it to microscopic examination. This is called biopsy. There is no blood test. X-ray examination of the breast is becoming more and more efficient in making a positive determination.

IT IS pretty hard to defend yourself against a play you do not understand. Only a player who has studied the composition of such maneuvers as the double squeeze would be likely to recognize that one is being built up by the declarer. If he sensed in time what was going on, he might be able to defend his side against it. But if he did not, you could not reasonably expect him to make the only move that could head it off.

CHAPTER FORTY-SEVEN

A ROOSTER crowed loudly in the yard back of an old-fashioned house set far back from the road where Fabienne Seymour, with her coat collar turned up and her hair tucked under her hat, sat beside the driver's seat of a white milk truck. The driver had disappeared around back of the porch of the old house.

He came back a few minutes later and got in beside her. "Where'd you want to get off?" he asked, giving her a sideways look and wondering why he never picked up any good looking ones. This one's face was streaked and her coat was crumpled and soiled from oil and smoke and smudge.

"Just anywhere in the center of town. I'll hang around until the garage opens and I can get help to go get my car."

"Tough luck. Bin drivin' all night?"

She nodded. Casually, she said, "You ought to know all the folk around this village. I used to know a man who was an amateur—radio fan. He had a sending station around here some place. Met him in Danbury at a dance once."

"Sure, Joe Willis. He got a prize last year for doing some rescue work when the lines was down. He lives up the road a piece."

"That's the one! Where does he live?"

"The little red house next to the Congregational church."

The Congregational church? That's on the green?" she asked, hoping that the town had the usual New England green.

"Right."

Fabienne didn't say anything until they got near the village and she saw the spires of the churches through the barren branches of the trees.

"You can let me off any place here," she said then.

"It'll be pretty cold waiting. The garage don't open until eight."

"Oh, I don't mind," she said heartily. "Maybe I can rouse somebody."

Rousing anyone was what she did not want to do. She didn't want to see anyone. All she wanted to do was find a heavy stone and complete her operations unseen.

"Don't take any wooden nickels," the milk driver told her.

She promised she wouldn't, waved gaily to him and watched his truck out of sight. Then she struck off across the green for the little red house beside the Congregational church, keeping an eye out for a large stone.

She found a brick, the best of all missiles, and felt for the string and piece of paper in her pocket.

Back of the trunk of a large tree she furtively fastened the paper to the brick and tied it firmly with string. Then she skittered the front and side of the red cottage, praying she'd meet no one, that no one in the house was yet awake.

Providence was with her. There was neither sight nor sound of a human being when she broke the glass in what she took to be a kitchen window and dropped the brick through, hearing it fall on the floor.

Ellen brushed the last traces of her afternoon sleep from her eyes and went into the living room where Nicky and Bill were keeping the watch by the radio. "Mike Kennedy should be on now," she told them. "He's on WHBH."

The commentator had already started his broadcast. When they found him on the dial, he was saying, "... none of the usual crank letters with clues, suggestions and false leads that usually flood police headquarters, newspaper and radio offices. For that reason, this station is inclined to agree with the amateur operator who telephoned this station a short time ago to report an incident which may have some bearing on the Parsons case."

Bill, Nicky and Ellen leaned toward the radio with tense faces. Kennedy continued:

A few minutes ago a telephone call was received by WHBH. We quote the following conversation, word for word.

"WBBH? Let me talk to the chief engineer."

"Garson speaking, chief engineer." "Garson, this is Joe Willis, WLBXS, Danbury, Connecticut." "Go ahead, Willis. What's on your mind?"

"Something I thought might have a connection with the Parsons mystery. The police think they still might be near New York. Well, a little while ago I found a message wrapped around a brick that had been thrown in my kitchen."

"Hold the wire, Willis. I'll write it down. Okay, go ahead." "It's kinda funny, Garson, but here goes: 'Get this message on networks. Matter of life and death. Message is for Bill—just Bill. Tell him he's needed where apple butter was made. Repeat: 'Tell Bill he's needed where apple butter was made.' No name, no address. That's all."

"That, ladies and gentlemen, concludes the message. If Bill is listening—"

Bill was no longer listening; he was on his feet, issuing orders, struggling into his coat, shouting, "Ellen, you get things ready here; Bartlett, get Parsons on the phone and tell him to be ready for me when I pick him up. Don't tell him—or anyone else—anything at all!"

Chris said, "Do you think—"

Fabienne shook her head helplessly. "I'm afraid not. It's twelve hours since I left the message. It seems as if—"

Chris said, "I hear an automobile!"

Fabienne ran to the window and saw the twin lights appearing over the hill, coming closer. The car was slowing up in front of the house!

"The police!" Chris breathed in a terror-stricken whisper.

"No! I recognize the car. It's Bill!" Fabienne stumbled a little in her eagerness to reach the door, hearing his voice. Her knees folded under her and she sat on the end of Sonny's cot, a step from the door which was opening.

"Chris! Are you here? ... Darling!"

Fabienne looked up as Larry drew his wife into his arms.

And beside her, mountainous, strong and more wonderful than the sight of angels, was Bill!

That, Fabienne thought, was the moment for her to stand up and begin explaining. But Fabienne stayed where she was and her face wrinkled up in a most unattractive way and she began to cry.

Bill said, "Here, blow your nose, and stop that racket. I want to hear what this girl is saying."

His words were curt, but his arm around her shoulder gave her strength and, if she'd dared look at him, she would have seen that he was smiling tenderly.

Chris was talking, lucidly, clearly, bravely, telling them what she had done.

"It's not your fault, Chris. It's all mine. There's nothing to worry about." Larry told her, shakily. "Dad's had a good fright. He'll fix the police. And with Mallory's story to back you up, there's no trouble ahead."

Fabienne: "Bill, what did you do?"

"Nothing much, my sweet. I said I had discharged Sonny and forgot to notify the hospital authorities. That's all."

"ALL" she said, with her eyes growing troubled. "Oh, Bill! That's a dreadful mark against you. Why, oh, why, did you do it?"

"What else could I do?" he said simply. "I had to do it."

"But you didn't!"

"I did," he repeated. "You see, it's this way, Fab. I'm in love with you."

There wasn't, there simply wasn't anything she could say. She began to tremble, shaking the cot on which they sat.

"Here, here, this will never do! You've got to get back to town before you get pneumonia. Don't try to talk, darling," he said, wrapping her in a blanket and picking her up as easily and tenderly as if she were a child.

Discipline Of Children Superintendent's Topic

Frank Fischer On Program For League

Frank Fischer, superintendent of Circleville Schools, was guest speaker at the Tuesday luncheon meeting of the Child Conservation League. Luncheon was served to 22 members and guests at 1 p. m. at Sylvia's party home, Mrs. R. P. Reid being hostess for the occasion.

Mr. Fischer chose for his subject, "The Swing of the Pendulum," his talk dealing particularly with the discipline of children, or rather the lack of it.

He stated in opening his discussion that discipline still works, even as it did in Moses' time. He stressed the fact that parents should mean what they say in correcting the faults of children, and should stick to it. In this way only are they able to keep the respect of their children in their power over them.

He said that parents should put on the brakes before others are compelled to do it for them. He mentioned how parents had upheld children in misdemeanors even when the law should have taken its course.

Children should have some home duties and should be required by the parent to perform them. He expressed the thought also that it should be made hard for children to get things. He mentioned too frequent attendance at motion picture theatres as bad for children who form the taste for grownup entertainment before they should. Children have a taste for nature study and many other things suitable for them and should be encouraged in this direction, the many features of older entertainment being reserved for the future.

Luncheon-Bridge

Mrs. Harold Costlow and Mrs. Merton Tootle of New Holland were joint hostesses at a delightful luncheon-bridge Tuesday at the Tootle home. Mrs. Allen Tootle was included as a substitute player for the occasion.

A three course luncheon was served at 1 p. m. at one large and two small tables attractive in their party appointments. The guests were members of the Three T Club, including Mrs. Dudley Roth, Mrs. Roy Griffith, Mrs. Marvin Hosler, Mrs. Harry Smith, Mrs. Roy Stewart, Mrs. Cranston McQuay, Mrs. Floyd James, Mrs. Dudley Briggs, Mrs. Almer Junk, Mrs. Frederick Volz, Mrs. Russell Ebert, Mrs. Wilbur Allemand, Mrs. Loren Chaffin and Mrs. Leslie Tarbill of the New Holland community and Mrs. Homer Wright of Salt Creek Township.

Holding scoring tallies after the games, Mrs. Roth received first prize, Mrs. Griffith, low, and Mrs. Hosler, traveling.

Luther League

The January session of Luther League was held Tuesday in the Trinity Lutheran parish house with 60 members and guests present. An interesting topic was prepared and read by Mrs. Gladden Troutman on the subject, "Church Decorum." She brought out several points of interest, namely: 1. Reverence; 2. Conversation; 3. Punctuality; 4. Sleeping; 5. Manner of dress. Her paper was followed by group discussion.

"The Year in Review" was the topic discussed by Miss Evelyn Young in the next paper.

During the meeting, plans were made for the league to present a play early in April. Gladden Troutman was named director and chosen to pick the play and select the cast, with Mrs. Troutman, Miss Margaret Adkins and Miss Norma Jean Wolfe as his assistants. Mr. Troutman was chosen also as song leader for the year, his assistant to be Miss Margaret List.

Members of the league resolved to attend the evening church service in a body each second Sunday of the month.

After the business hour, a delicious lunch was served by the January committee with Mrs. Charles Walters as chairman, assisted by the Misses Betty Binkley, Betty Barnes, Eleanor

COACH TO KEEP OHIO STATE JOB FOR NEXT YEAR

COLUMBUS, Jan. 10.—Assurance that he again would coach
Ohio State University's football eleven next fall came today from Francis A. Schmidt himself.

Back from a holiday trip to the West Coast, Schmidt put the quietus on rumors that he would sign a contract with Stanford University to replace "Tiny"
Thornhill, recently dismissed.
Lynn W. St. John, Ohio State athletic director, backed up Schmidt's statement by adding that he "had never heard him say a thing about leaving us this year."

STANFORD, Cal., Jan. 10.—
While the Stanford University Board of Athletic control maintained a noncommittal attitude on the choice of a new football coach, alumni circles today heightened their belief that Clark Shaughnessy, last grid mentor of the University of Chicago, would be named Friday night to succeed Tiny Thornhill.

Odds on Shaughnessy to succeed Stanford's ousted coach rose when University President Ray Lyman Wilbur disclosed that he and other college officials conferred recently at length with the Chicagoan.
Chicago abandoned intercollegiate football after the last season.
At the same time, Buck Shaw of Santa Clara and Dud De Groot of San Jose State were still ranked as favorites among the students.

RECORD LIST OF ENTRIES SLATED FOR $40,000 RACE

GOSHEN, N. Y., Jan. 10.—The largest field in 11 years, a total of 47 three-year-old trotting horses, was listed as eligible today for the $40,000 Hambletonian, the famous trotting stake to be held at the Good Time track in August.
Payment of $250 fees by January 1 rendered the horses eligible.
To start, another $500 fee must be paid a day before the race.

The winter book favorite, according to those close to the track, will be Kuno, owned by D. W.
Bostwick, who hung up the speed record as a two-year-old last year.

GLENFORD HANDS AMANDA CAGERS FIRST SETBACK

Amanda's cagers were unable Tuesday evening to stop the sharpshooting R. Shriver. Glenford's star forward, so lost their first game of the current basketball season, 42-38, in an overtime tussle. The regulation game ended at 38-all, but two Glenford buckets in the overtime settled the affair.

Shriver counted 10 buckets from the field and one toss from the charity lane. Wayne Hiatt and Herb Lutz did most of Amanda's scoring, getting 13 and 12 points each.

Amanda trailed at the end of the first period, 6-8, led at the half 17-13, and was three points ahead as the final period began, 26-23, but was tied up as the game ended.

The Glenford team has been beaten only once this year, that time 37-34 by Pickaway Township on the Perry County club's court.

JOE BURK WINS SULLIVAN HONOR WITH SCULLING

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Joe Burk, of Philadelphia, today became the first oarsman ever to hold the James E. Sullivan memorial award given annually for a decade to the athlete who "as an amateur and a man has done the most during the last year to advance the cause of sportsmanship."

Third to Don Lash, Indiana
runner, and Katherine Rawls Thompson, Florida swimmer, a year ago, Burk won the award for 1939 by a wide margin in the balloting of 600 sports leaders throughout the nation.

Next in order behind Burk came Chuck Fenske, Wisconsin runner; Alice Marble, of California, women's tennis champion; Bud Ward, of Seattle, men's amateur golf champion; and Al Patnik, outstanding Ohio State diving star.

Graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, where he was a member of the eight-oared crew and varsity captain, Burk has in the last three years achieved success as a sculler marking him as possibly the greatest oarsman in history.

For the last three years in a row
he has won the American and Canadian single sculls title and in the last two years he has become the first American ever to win the diamond sculls of the Henley royal regatta, London, twice. He also broke the record that had stood for 33 years in the latter event—and broke it by a full eight seconds.

Since 1937 he has scored 37 straight victories, a record never before approached.

WILMINGTON '5' WINS OVERTIME CONTEST, 29-27

Center's Follow Shot Gives Invaders Edge After Thrilling Tilt

RESERVES DROP VERDICT

Failure Of Red And Black
To Take Advantage Of Opportunities Hurts

Circleville High Tigers, performing before the biggest home crowd of the season, handed a gallant Wilmington Hurricane team a 29-27 South Central Ohio League victory Tuesday evening because they refused to take advantage of their opportunities. Time after time during the contest that turned out to be a thriller the Red and Black plays broke boys loose under the net only to have the hurricanes missed and Wilmington take the ball on the rebound to break up the threat.

The game was a thriller and it ended in a sensational manner.
The Tigers led through all the first half, but bogged down in the third period when Jim Callihan's free toss was the only point scored for the Red and Black. The first period had ended 9-5 and the half 17-15 with Whitey Davis and Harold Smith putting on a brilliant exhibition of shooting and all their teammates playing good defensive ball and some nice passing. The third period, though, found the Wilmington defense holding down Davis and Smith and the Hurricane defense was floating boys loose under the hoop for points. The chief offender in a Wilmington uniform in this period was Wallace, jitter-bug guard, who played the backboard perfectly to boost the ball for several buckets. Lax work under both-buckets cost the Tigers in this session that saw Wilmington slip into the lead 24-18.

Davis Ties Score

During the entirety of the first period the Red and Black kept nipping at the heels of the Wilmington boys, gradually cutting down the lead until in the last minute when Whitey Davis fired a desperation one-hand shot from the side that connected to tie the score. The game ended before the leather could get to the other end of the floor. The game had ended 27-27.

Then came the overtime period with sudden death as the ultimate end for the team that failed to score two points first.
The Tigers controlled the ball
most of the time in the overtime session and had a couple of shots at the net at least one of which was from close up, but they lost the leather and saw Brads, Wilmington center, slip in a follow shot for the bucket that spelled defeat. Brads was raised to the shoulders of his teammates, and rightfully, because he was alert and on the spot when it meant something.

Wallace, a substitute, was the hot shot for the Hurricane with five action buckets all but one of which were follow shots. Brads connected for 10 points and Earl

Clifton, 6.

Canning Company Men Begin 1940 Contracting

New Optometrist

By S. D. Fridley, Ashville, Phone 79

John Wilson, the local field man and acreage contractor for the Crites cannery operations in this territory, has started soliciting for pea and corn crop ground for the 1940 season. About 700 acres will be required for pea seeding and around 1200 for sweet corn. A substantial advance price over last year will be paid for the growing of these crops this season. And this is not all. For the first time in the history of the canning plant will contracts be made for the growing of pumpkin for the cannery. Bill Duvall and the Coon Brothers can be counted on for growing their good share for the factory along with the fancy exhibition kind.

Ashville

And it sure was a mighty fine thing this snow came to cover the late growth wheat plants during the zero freezing weather or the crop would have been a slim one at next harvest time. This is the substance of the many farmer remarks we have heard within the past few days. And too, they tell us the corn acreage for the canning season is to be considerably reduced.

Ashville

The accident at Main Street railway crossing Monday evening brings back to memory to quite a few of the old citizens the several accidents which have occurred there in the years since about 1875 when the then Scioto Valley Railway began operating. Main Street crossing was then some ten feet lower than now and the depot was located where the Scioto Grain Company elevator now stands.

Ashville

A stockholder's meeting of the Ashville Grain Company will be held at the local K. of P. Hall next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Ludwig Oesterle, president of the company told us. The date of the meeting of the Scioto Grain Company stockholders has not yet been named. Both the local bank stockholders are holding their annual meetings today for the selection of directors for the coming year.

RANKIN WILL FILED

The will of John P. Rankin, admitted to probate by Judge Lemuel Weldon, Tuesday, leaves his estate to his widow, Mrs. Anna Rankin, 344 East Union Street.

WARD, HOFFMAN TO RUN AGAIN FOR OHIO JOBS

Grant P. Ward and Robert H. Hoffman, both Columbus Republicans, announced their candidacies Wednesday for reelection as state senators of the tenth senatorial district which includes Franklin and Pickaway counties.

Ward, serving his second term in the Senate, was a member of the House of Representatives for eight years. He is a former line coach of the Ohio State University football team and former football player. He is a lawyer, sports writer and broadcaster of football games.

Mr. Hoffman is an attorney and was former county auditor of Franklin County. He is chairman of the special Senate Highway Committee. He was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the death of the late Senator Gallagher on the special Senate Taxation Committee which is investigating the relief situation of the state and the financial conditions of the municipalities and various taxing districts.

1,500 DEFIANCE PUPILS RETURN TO SCHOOL TASK

DEFIANCE—Jan. 10 — Fifteen hundred Defiance children returned to their school classes today after voters approved a two-mill operating levy at a special election, 1266 to 1238.

The schools were closed last December 22 to economize after a similar levy lost last November 7. Had the levy been defeated again yesterday, classes would have remained closed until January 22.

Shoe Company Workers Ballot Against Unions

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Jan. 10—John L. Lewis' CIO and William Green's A. F. of L. were both buried today under a 5 to 1 avalanche of votes rolled in a labor board election by employees of the Endicott Johnson Shoe Corporation against unionization.

The crushing setback administered to the rival efforts of the two unions to organize the Endicott Johnson workers was generally regarded in industrial circles as a tribute to the benevolent policies of the corporation and its founder, ailing, 82-year-old George F. Johnson.

Hundreds of Endicott Johnson workers have been attending special community prayer services for the recovery of Johnson who as a bench foreman took hold of a bankrupt plant employing 200 men and built it over a period of 45 years into a $36,000,000 organization.

On Monday thousands of Endicott Johnson employees paraded through the plants in a mass demonstration against unionization. "We're for George F." and "George F. can't be wrong," their placards read.

The official vote in the nine plants as announced by Russell Miller, NLRB field representative, was:

A. F. of L. Boot and Shoe Workers Union, 1,612; CIO United Shoe Workers of America, 1,079; against union representation, 12,693.

After the polls closed in the second largest election in labor board history, George W. Johnson, president of the corporation, issued a statement urging all employees "to accept the result without demonstration" and "go back to work bearing no ill feeling toward any one."

Endicott Johnson, whose nine plants are centered in this area, was one of the first corporations to establish employee profit sharing. It also provided recreational facilities, set up hospitalization, improved housing conditions and established cut-rate markets. The elder Johnson contributed liberally to churches of all denominations in the area and few today are burdened by substantial debt.

Both rival unions announced in advance an adverse vote would be protested. Green had made a personal appearance Friday pleading for a union vote. The unions both promised higher wages if chosen collective bargaining agents.
